

How does the school know if my child needs extra help?

Concerns may be raised by the class teacher, a member of support staff or by you as a parent. The school has termly pupil progress meetings to ensure all children are making good progress. Educational testing to identify learning needs may be carried out by the SENDCo or an outside professional. The school will discuss this with you and a decision will be made as to how to support your child.

What should I do if I think my child has a special educational need?

In the first instance talk to your child's class teacher who may then arrange a meeting with the SENDCo.

How will the school support my child?

First quality teaching planned to meet individual needs from the class teacher. A Personal Education Plan with specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-based targets agreed between pupil, parent and school. Timed interventions to support needs may be delivered individually or in small groups. Assessment and support may be available from external services commissioned by the MAT or provided through Norfolk County Council's local offer

St Augustine's Catholic Primary School is part of the St John the Baptist Multi Academy Trust. Schools in the trust work together to provide a similar approach to meeting the needs of children with special educational needs. All of our schools aim to be as inclusive as possible and to enable every child to learn, grow and reach their full potential.

How do parents and children have their say?

Parents are invited to consultation meetings twice a year where Learning Support Plans (LSPs) will be reviewed and shared

The class teacher/SENDCo are available to discuss any concerns you may have about your child's progress. The school's PSA is available to support parents and children.

We talk to children regularly about their learning and

How does the school support transition?

We recognise that change and 'moving on' can be difficult time for children with additional needs.

Information is passed onto the new class teacher and handover meetings take place.

Social stories and other resources may be used to help your child understand the changes.

In Year 5 children with an EHCP will have a transition review to discuss appropriate option for Year 7.

In Year 6 the school liaises closely with Notre Dame High School and other local High Schools with meetings and extra transition visits arranged for your child.
